2025 ANNUAL IMPACT REPORT

LETTERS FROM LEADERSHIP

After opening our Blue Boost Center in Cheyenne in the last quarter of 2024, 2025 was a year of learning and transition for the Blue Foundation. We developed, improved, and established policies and procedures becoming extremely efficient in helping our clients, and in how we use the dollars we receive from our generous donors.

We welcomed Dani Ingleby as our new Executive Director of the Boost Center following the very successful term of Laura Fowler. A big thank you to Laura, and eager to see where Dani will lead the Boost Center moving forward. In 2025 we also welcomed new board members who bring their energy and expertise to the Blue Foundation.

We have established great working relationships with the many non-profit organizations doing wonderful work in our communities in Wyoming and Colorado. The job of the Blue Boost Center is to connect our clients with the appropriate services to help them in crisis, and then to remain beside them as they work toward self-sufficiency.

With your gifts, and money raised at our fundraisers, last year your Blue Foundation was able to grant over $130,000 to organizations in communities we serve and $15,000 in college scholarships.

The Blue Foundation is an independent 501(c)(3). You can become a lifetime member for as little as $5 submitted with your brief application online at bluefoundation.blue or at any Blue FCU branch. The dollars you contribute to the Blue Foundation are matched up to 80 percent by Blue Federal Credit Union.

JIM WOOD
Blue Foundation
President

I'm honored to introduce myself as the new Executive Director of the Boost Center. It's a privilege to step into this role, and I'm excited to work alongside such a dedicated team and vibrant community.

My career has been guided by a passion for understanding and supporting the human experience. After earning my Psychology degree from the University of Wyoming, I spent the last seven years focused on community wellness and mental health.

Working in long-term care showed me the importance of dignity and specialized support. My time with the Wyoming Department of Education then gave me a broader, systemic view of wellbeing and how we advocate for the resources people need to thrive. Together, these experiences shaped my belief that wellness is a collective responsibility.

At our core, we are a community, and our connections are our greatest strength. When we come together, we don't just survive—we flourish. That is where the Boost Center truly shines.

I'm grateful for the strong foundation already built here and honored to help carry it forward. I look forward to building a healthier, more connected future together.
